

Game: Truth Tappers

Get to know each other better by sharing fun facts in this game.

Sit in a wide circle with feet extended into the center. If you have a group larger than 4, form more than one circle.

Each person takes a turn and will share something special or exciting about him- or herself that no one else knows...or something that's untrue.

After the person shares, the others must silently guess whether the fact was true or untrue. If they think it's true, they'll keep their feet still. If they think it's untrue, they tap their feet together three times.

Once everyone has voted, the person reveals whether the fact is true. Play as long as everyone has interest.

Afterward, discuss:

- What did you like about learning these neat things about each other?
- How did you feel when you found out something was untrue?
- Why does it matter that you let your friends or family know the real you?
